DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 2 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claims 2 and 4 recite the limitation "the array clock" in line 3. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Datar et al, Patent No. 6,625,740, in view of Douglas et al, Patent No. 6,609,193.

As to claim 3, Datar et al teach controlling executing of instructions in processing elements (plurality of circuit blocks, col. 7 lines 40-42) and in a sequence processor (circuitry for dynamically activating and deactivating selected ones of the circuit blocks, col. 7 lines 43-49) by examining an S/P bit of each instruction (power control codes embedded in instructions with bits appended, col. 1 line 55 – col. 2 line 3, and col. 7 lines 43-49), masking off one or more processing elements (col. 4 lines 45-60), and maintaining all execution units in masked off processing elements in an inactive state to conserve power (col. 4 lines 45-60 and col. 5 line 32 – col. 6 line 31).

Art Unit: 2116

However, Datar et al do not expressly teach the system being a scalable pipelined array processor. Douglas et al teach a pipelined system concerned with power conservation. It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to combine the teachings of Datar et al and Douglas et al because both are commonly directed to power conservation by inactivating a portion of a system, and Datar et al's power conservation technique when incorporated into Douglas et al's pipelined system, would have provided improved flexibility in power control in prior existing pipelined systems.

As to claim 4, Datar et al teach keeping the processing elements off when a sequence processor-only instruction is executing (inherent, col. 7 lines 40-49). Douglas et al disclose that in the prior art there exists gating an array clock off to the processing elements (col. 1 lines 42-59).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 1 is allowed over the prior art of record.

Claim 2 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the prior art of record, alone or in combination, do not teach where a processing element is masked off, allowing only processing element communicating DSU instructions to be decoded by the masked off processing element, the masked off processing element providing cluster switch control information in response to decoding a processing element communication DSU instruction.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
